Adam Warner, Adam Beer-Colacino and Terry Wilkins are the Sinners Choir ./ GEORGE FARRELL Special to County Life

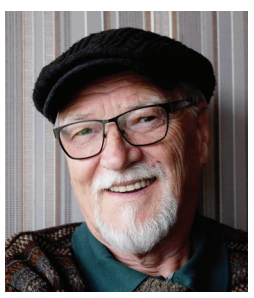
Three Sinners Choir is coming to Minden

These Sinners are musicians, their band is the Sinners Choir, and they're coming to the Dominion Hotel in Minden on Saturday, Oct. 14. The Sinners Choir consists of senior member Terry Wilkins on bass, 40-something Adam Warner on drums, and guitarist Adam Beer-Colacino, who's in his 20s.

This dynamic trio of three generations of seasoned Toronto sidemen have worked with a veritable "who's who" of Canadian music. But the Sinners Choir takes the musicians out of their sidemen roles and allows them to showcase their talents as singers and composers, through resonant, three-part harmonies.

The group started to come together in 2010, when Wilkins answered a request to substitute for another bass player at a Grossmans Tavern Sunday night jam in Toronto. It was at Grossmans where Wilkins met Beer-Colacino, who was playing guitar. "He was 20 years old and still in Humber College," Wilkins recalls, "and we had an immediate understanding from the first note we played."

For the next couple of years both musicians played in other bands while they looked for a drummer with the right set of requirements. "We had to have a drummer who was a savvy composer and who could sing harmony," Wilkins said. "Then four years ago we found Adam Warner. We had a blend on day one and we went from there." The Sinners Choir has been playing regularly ever since, at such iconic Toronto venues as the Rex, Cameron, and Dakota.



GEORGE FARRELL
On Arts

Wilkins has been to the Dominion on several occasions and Warner was here this past May when he appeared with Gene Hardy and "Sparkjiver." It will be Beer-Colacino's first trip to Minden.

What you'll see and hear at the Dominion gig "is mostly original music plus a blend of Roots/Americana from the last 100 years," Wilkins said. The band presents itself with a gritty, yet sweet approach to blues, folk, funk, R&B and rock. They can get jazzy too. Wilkins said that at the Dominion they would play two or three sets, with the first set being acoustic. It will feature Wilkins on upright bass, Beer-Colacino playing guitar and Warner on washboard. Wilkins said that for the acoustic set they'll use a single microphone. The other sets will be electric, with Warner back on his cut-down drum kit.

The Sinners Choir has no leader. "It's a triangular, democratic band," Wilkins explained, "and we spread the lead vocals equally, with every set consisting of three cycles of three songs each. But the common thread is the sound of our harmony, which is based more on the Duke Ellington model than the Everly Brothers. Harmony singing touches people on a primary level, and it's therapeutic to the singers and for those listening," he said.

The Sinners Choir is equally at home on large concert stages, clubs, or house concerts, and in July 2015 the band was the closing act at The Mont Tremblant International Blues Festival, where the trio played for thousands of people over two days.

The Sinners Choir has a regular, Saturday afternoon gig at the Rex, and it's from there, that the band will be travelling to Minden, on Oct. 14. Showtime is 8 p.m. Tickets are $25 and are available online at DominionHotelPub.ca or at the hotel.

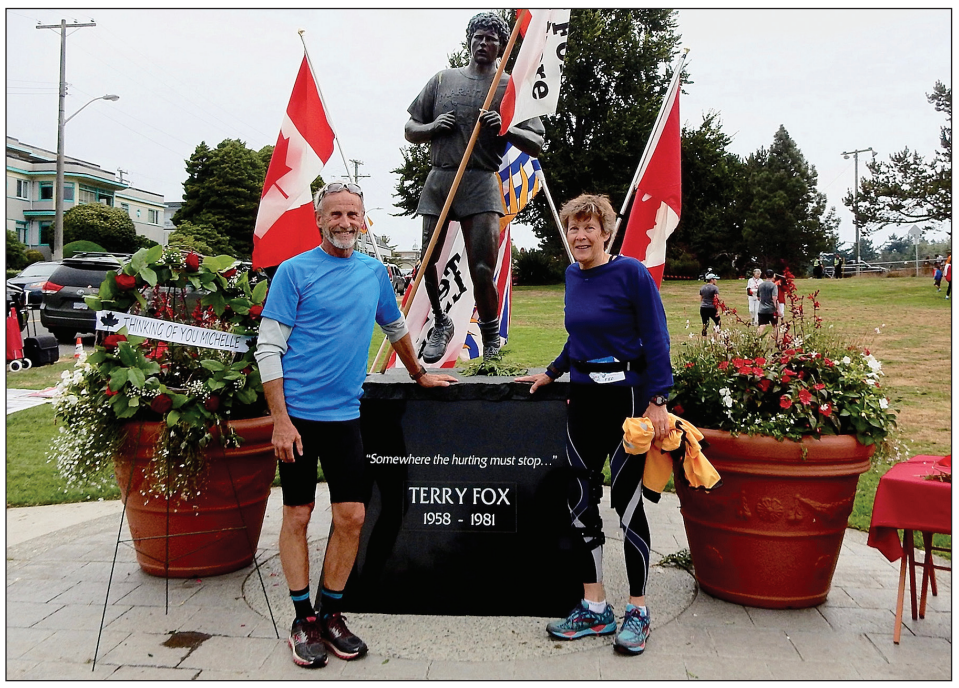
Making time for Terry

Haliburton's Len and Kit Pizzey have made it a goal of theirs to participate in the Terry Fox Run every year. They've done the charity event for cancer research since 1983. However, this year presented a bit of a dilemma.

The couple was in Salt Spring Island, B.C., and discovered that on the traditional Terry Fox Run day, Sept. 17, that island wasn't holding a run (theirs was scheduled for Sept. 24).

"With some creative thinking and cooperative weather, we were able to find a happy solution to our dilemma," Len wrote in an email to the paper. The couple travelled to Sidney, B.C., then rented a car and drove to Victoria where they did the run from Mile 0 of the Trans-Canada Highway "where Terry would have finished his run, if cancer had not returned."

It was the 37th year for the Pizzeys, who ran 10 kilometres. They've done the run in four provinces over the years and also in Majorca, Spain.



Len and Kit Pizzey don't look too tired after running 10 km in the Terry Fox Run in Victoria, B.C. The couple has run every year since 1983 and found themselves in British Columbia without a run to attend. They had to do some creative scheduling to make it happen. /Photo submitted

DIY investing

DIY books and TV shows often catch my eye. I love the idea of saving money and doing it myself. I have many friends who complete a variety of home projects and renovations on their own. The thing is, you have to know your limits and capabilities.

ELIZABETH O'CONNOR
THINKING MONEY

I once took on a window treatment project after watching a home décor show. I bought some fabric, dusted off my sewing machine and went to work. Two days later, the window was still without curtains and I was on my way to the local pharmacy for Band-Aids, peroxide and a pain reliever! I lost two days of my time, the $75 I put out for material (that become rags) and the feeling in my right thumb!

Doing your own investing may seem like a good idea, especially with all the books, TV shows and online information. There are many disadvantages to taking on the responsibility of investing on your own, the biggest being time. How much time can you devote to creating a financial plan and determining the right investments. Keep in mind this not a short term commitment. How much knowledge do you have or are you going to have to obtain to be able to invest wisely? Do you understand risk? It is easy to say you are going to buy low and sell high but when market volatility strikes a nervous investor has been known to do the opposite! Having an advisor you can call for reassurance and guidance can help calm those jitters. They can help maintain discipline in a market so often guided by emotion.

As a do-it-yourself investor, you cannot simply set up your investments and forget about them. You will need to pay attention to market conditions and check your asset allocation to determine when to make shifts along the way. Human nature is often the greatest enemy to successful investing. Rebalancing is especially important when life events occur and may also create tax implications that you need to be aware of.

Choosing to do your own investing should not be about avoiding fees as cost should only be an issue in the absence of value. A good investment advisor will articulate the value and benefits of the services associated with managing your portfolio. Services such as guidance on retirement income, tax and estate planning are things you should consider before taking on your own investing. There are also a lot of moving parts to establishing a strong Investment portfolio, things like financial planning, determining appropriate asset allocation and portfolio rebalancing. It is not just about stock picks and returns! It's about your financial goals and the path you need to take to achieve financial success!

Top 10 things to be thankful for

If you are like me, you probably find yourself speechless when you are sitting at the Thanksgiving table and someone asks, "What are you thankful for?" Typically, I am at a loss for words, which a) makes me look ungrateful and b) gives the person beside me an easy answer when they get asked.

After our most recent Thanksgiving, however, I decided to create a list of things that I'll use next year – and, after that, they'll probably never ask me again. Here are 10.

STEVE GALEA
Humour Columnist

1. That the whole fig leaf underwear craze died – because frankly, it just gives me a rash.
2. That red squirrels do not grow to the size of bears.
3. That Trump has done for his hair style what Hitler did for the narrow clipped moustache.
4. That baked beans are not served everywhere candle enthusiasts gather.
5. That no one ever hears a tree fall in the forest – except for the guy on the ATV who hit it.
6. That cliff diving isn't a winter sport in Canada.
7. That some plumbers wear coveralls.
8. That toilet paper manufacturers opted for "cottony softness" instead of "abrasive cleaning action."
9. That some lazy genius discovered you could peel the colour stickers off a Rubik's cube and rearrange them to solve the puzzle.
10. That we pass rather than throw the potatoes.

Blow at High Dough

LAURIE JONES
Special to County Life

I am a staunch supporter of the idea that the arts do not have the corner on big "C" culture and that we "cultural workers" need to smarten up and broaden our perspective. "Quit using the word "culture" synonymously with "the arts" I say, spoiling for a fight. "Haliburton County culture includes the deer hunt, dance, hockey arenas and art, curling and craft, mushers and music and that's just for starters."

So, it was a bit of a surprise that I felt piqued by the sight of simple red and white signs that read "Welcome Hometown Hockey" popping up around town the Friday before Thanksgiving. Hmmm... I thought. Could it be that I need a touch of my own medicine?

When the buzz started around Rogers Hometown Hockey coming to Haliburton a few weeks ago I, along with several other narrow minds of the artistic persuasion, reacted with consternation. Our dance card was full that weekend: Visible Voices Art Studio's third anniversary open house, the Ontario Clay and Glass Association's Biennial Juried Touring Exhibition at Rails End Gallery, Australia's hottest tap dancing sensation RAW Metal at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion Sunday, Canadian Blues Legends The Sinners Choir at the Dominion Hotel Friday, and The Ukuladies at the Folk Society's Open Stage Saturday. And now, big media was coming to town to promote Canada's iconic sport and draw the attention of millions to Haliburton? Don't we have enough going on already?

In the digital age, there are probably more people employed in the world of entertainment than in any other field. Almost 13 per cent of the Canadian workforce is employed in the creative economy, a group that comprises artists, educators, writers, musicians, camera crews, big screen installers and, yes, even Ron MacLean and Tara Slone. Hometown Hockey is the whole package right in our backyard. Where I had been indignant at its power to mobilize, invigorate and excite so many people and the possibility that it would overshadow events that have been months in the planning, I have made an attitude adjustment. More a seismic shift really.

Rogers Hometown Hockey reminds me of The Tragically Hip's 1998 hit song by Gord Downie titled "Blow at High Dough," the one that starts with the line "they shot a movie once, in my hometown, Everybody was in it, from miles around..." It's a great song but I never understood what it meant until today when I decided to try and figure out what the lyrics were saying. That's when I learned that those who "blow at high dough" are the ones who are impatient for the loaf to rise.

That's when I embraced Hometown Hockey for what it could be to our town. So take a deep breath and BLOW, Haliburton! The world will be watching Sunday night!

Gord Downie is an artist who is using his substantial creative powers and celebrity to illuminate the tragedy of Canada's residential schools and a Bruins fan too. To learn more please visit secretpath.ca.

Laurie Jones is the curator of the Rails End Gallery and Arts Centre.

Ellis Paul to perform in Haliburton

Ellis Paul will appear at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion on Oct. 21 at 7:30 p.m. Some artists chronicle their lives through music while others chronicle the time they live in. Paul has a rare talent of being able to weave songs from his personal life experiences that not only define the people and the places but the era. His songs resonate with the audience and survive the test of time. Woody Guthrie and Bob Dylan are major influencers of Paul's music.

In an interview with Chris Kocher, WHR radio host and journalist, Paul states, "I ran out of old girlfriends to write about, and I stopped writing about childhood experiences because I exhausted that well – but the deeper that you go, the more the songs become about all of us rather than just your personal life experiences."

Ellis Paul is a gifted singer/songwriter, but more than that he is a storyteller.

His lyrics reach out from inside and yet also express the feelings, thoughts and sensibilities that most people can relate to in one way or another, regardless of age or upbringing.

His songs are about the exhilaration of the open road. They celebrate heroes. They express a hope for redemption. They describe things that are both near and dear such as the sharing of love. They are intimate, passionate and enduring.

He has won 15 Boston Music Awards, his songs have appeared in major motion pictures and been covered by Grammy winners. He has created 19 albums, each one focused on a different concept. He is an insatiable performer who does 200 shows per year. He has been entertaining for more than a quarter of a century, resulting in performances from the Newport Folk Festival to Carnegie Hall.

Paul's roots, and current home, are in small American towns. He currently lives in a small town in Maine.

He comes from humble origins. His family were potato farmers who could count among their forebears a veteran of the battle of Gettysburg, whose heroism on that field of honour earned him the 140 acres of Maine farmland that his descendants would continue to sow.

It was the place that taught Paul the meaning of hard work and self-reliance, and the values that accompany as much drive and determination as any individual could muster.

Don Gage, treasurer of the Haliburton County Folk Society, says that, "Paul was introduced to me by Steve Poltz, an amazing musician who had just played a house concert in our home. Upon hearing Ellis Paul play at the Folk Music Ontario Conference I just knew we had to get him up here."

There's likely no greater evidence of how Guthrie's insights and humanity have rubbed off on Paul than in this particularly telling tribute from Woody Guthrie's daughter, Nora.

"Wise, tender, brilliant and biting, Ellis is one of our best human compasses, marking in melodies and poems where we've been and where we might go if we so choose to. Personally Ellis, I'm goin' where you're goin'!"

It's no wonder then that recently Paul received a prestigious honour: an honorary doctor of humane letters degree from the University of Maine, which also asked him to write the school's song as well as deliver its commencement address in May 2014.

Tickets for the concert series, or individual concerts, are available online at www.haliburtonfolk.com, Halco Electronics/The Source in Haliburton and The Organic Times in Minden. For more information call 705-754-FOLK or visit www.haliburtonfolk.com.

Hometown Hockey hosts gear up for Haliburton

DARREN LUM
Staff

Crowds are expected in Haliburton for the taping of Hometown Hockey.

Host Ron MacLean said Hometown Hockey brings everyone together, revealing a common spirit, no matter where you're from.

"All the driving elements – the rink rat in us, the hockey heart in us – it's the same whether you're in Haliburton or Toronto. It really is," he said in an interview with the paper.

MacLean calls Haliburton "a jewel," equating it to Niagara on the Lake. He visited the area frequently in the 1990s with wife Cari.

"I just loved everything about Eagle Lake and the area. Just cycling, hiking. Never skied in the winter because obviously Hockey Night in Canada, but definitely did Thanksgiving weekends at Sir Sam's. Just really enjoyed it," he said.

The first time they were here they stayed for a weekend at Sir Sam's Inn and while out to eat at McKecks Tap and Grill they met then-owner Walt McKechnie, who invited them back to his house down the road from Sir Sam's. MacLean knew McKechnie, a Maple Leafs alumni, and appreciated the hospitality.

MacLean said he wasn't surprised to get a call from McKechnie to consider Haliburton as one of the stops for Hometown Hockey. He has received calls from him about ideas for Coach's Corner over the years.

"He's been a great counsel really my whole career. I'm 32 years on Hockey Night in Canada and Walt has been there every step of the way," he said.

MacLean fully realized the power of the show on the tour's first ever stop in London, Ont., with the piece produced by Stephen Brunt on Michigan's Ian Jenkins, a goalie drafted by the OHL's

Rogers Hometown Hockey Welcome

On behalf of the County of Haliburton, I would like to extend a warm welcome to Rogers Hometown Hockey to our community. Although Haliburton is the smallest village to ever host this wonderful event, we sincerely hope that visitors and viewers will appreciate the rich hockey legacy that exists in this land of hills and lakes. The local hockey icons, both past and present, will be part of our festivities that you will encounter Oct. 14 and 15. Names like Matt Duchene, Ron Stackhouse, Bernie Nicholls, Walt McKechnie, Cody Hodgson, Wren Blair, and Scotty Morrison have all called the Haliburton Highlands home at some point in their life. The legacy of the Haliburton Hockey Haven has also made Haliburton a summer home for NHLers too numerous to list here. We hope you enjoy your time with us, and come away knowing that many hockey dreams start in small communities just like Haliburton.

Finally, a huge thanks to Ron MacLean, Tara Slone and the staff at Rogers Hometown Hockey for including #MyHaliburtonHighlands as the second stop on the 2017/18 season.

Arenas are meeting places

London Knights who died tragically. On his way to the Knights' training camp, Jenkins fell off the back of a half-tonne truck he was attempting to get a ride in down the street. He struck his head and died.

"We had a really boisterous scene. Lots of folks there. Music. Energy. And the piece went on the telecast. It was played on the speakers and big screens for the audience there and you could hear a pin drop. I realized the power of the story," he said.

He returned to London to see Jenkins's father the following year at a fundraising golf tournament for a foundation created in his name.

MacLean's co-host, Tara Slone, loves how storytelling and hockey come together with this show.

"Arenas are meeting places in this country and I think we make it a little bit bigger and little more concentrated, but there is a lot of community pride associated with these stories and the history. We feel like we've done our job when the community feels like we told their story well," she said. "I'd like to think that's sort of a nice galvanizing experience for people."

Canadians are curious about one another, she said.

"We're in love with the game. We're in love with our heroes and our heroes all come from somewhere and that somewhere isn't necessarily a metropolitan area. It's West Guilford. It's Portage la Prairie. It's Thompson, Manitoba, and so I think we love that collectively. We like that journey," she said.

Slone said she will be in Haliburton on Friday and spend the weekend here while MacLean said he will drive up Sunday morning.

The past few weeks there has been several tragedies in the world from hurricanes and storms to the Edmonton attack to the mass killing of concert-goers in Las Vegas and the sad news of musician Tom Petty's death. Hometown Hockey is a reminder there is good in the world, she said.

"It's so important. It's so easy to become depressed and hopeless. Every morning you wake up and you look at the newspaper or your Twitter feed or whatever and [think] what am I going to see today? That's what it felt like the last couple months anyway. It feels like a spiral. The more we are reminded of the good in humanity the better," she said.

Healthy Workplace Month brings reminder to support mental health at work

There is no health without mental health, especially at work.

That's the message the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit is highlighting for workplaces in Haliburton County, Northumberland County and the City of Kawartha Lakes. During Healthy Workplace Month in October, local organizations are being encouraged to support the mental health of their staff.

"When workplaces take the time and effort to support employee mental health, they are making a valuable investment that can pay off in many ways," says Lisa van der Vinne, a Health Promoter with the HKPR District Health Unit.

According to the Mental Health Commission of Canada, in any given year, one in five Canadians will experience a mental health problem or illness, costing the economy more than $50 billion. With statistics like these, van der Vinne says a strong business case can be made for implementing programs and policies that support workplace mental health.

"Workplaces that support staff members help to keep employees more engaged, productive and healthy at work, while reducing sick time," she says. "That's good for the individual and the entire organization!"

For resources and information to support employee mental health, local workplaces can contact the health unit at 1-866-888-4577, ext. 1256, or visit its workplace health webpage (www.solutions2workstress.ca).

Van der Vinne encourages workplaces to think of mental health in the same way they do other health and safety issues. "The mental health and safety of employees is just as important as their physical health and safety," she says. "That's just common sense, when you consider that both physical and mental factors can affect the well-being of staff."

THE HALIBURTON COUNTY ECHO
AND MINDEN RECORDER
Vol. 99 No. 11 Wednesday, October 29, 1980 "The voice of the Highlands" 18pages 25 cents

Minden council adopts new scheme of assessment

Anson, Hindon and Minden council has voted to adopt the new equalized assessment system being offered by the provincial government.

The effect the new equalized assessment will have on area residents was outlined by Paul Lindquist last Wednesday night.

Lindquist, area assessor from the regional assessment office in Lindsay, presented council with a computer printout which showed tax shifts created by the new assessment.

This new assessment system attempts to equalize assessment within property classes. Researchers have taken the 1978 market value of properties and using a calculated equalization factor, have equalized the assessments.

In the past, inequities have been present in the system since market values have been frozen since 1970.

Lindquist told council the assessment office needed a decision before October 31 if the new assessment were to be used for 1981, because of deadlines for printing material related to the new system.

The new assessment system will not change the overall tax base of the township, nor will it affect the township's apportionment to the county Board of Education or county council.

Lindquist said the system will be implemented in 1981 and the market value of property, the equalizing factor and the assessment will be printed on each individual tax bill.

The effect the system will have on individual properties is not available as yet.

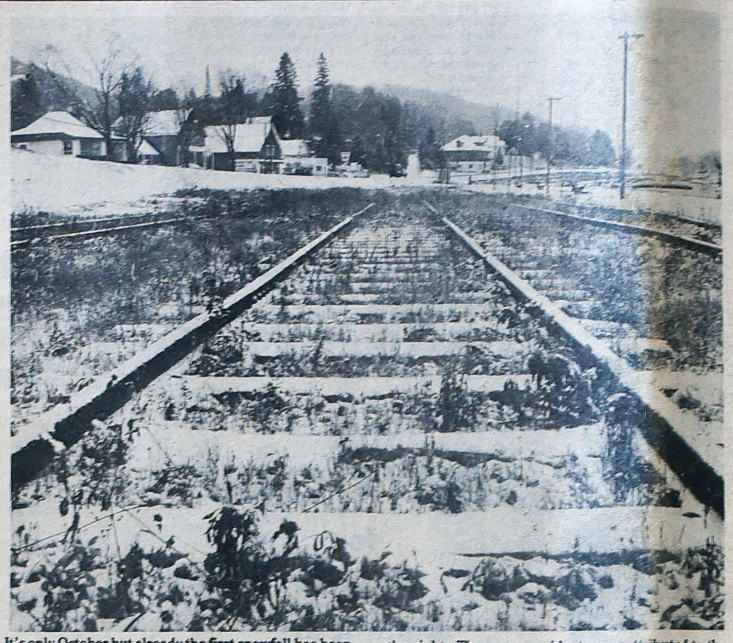
"Some will go up, some will go down and some will remain the same," Lindquist told council.

Juveniles charged in library breakin

Two juveniles from Minden, aged 13 and 15, will appear in juvenile court in Lindsay to face charges of break, enter and theft after an incident Friday in which a quantity of cash and a cassette recorder were stolen from the Minden library.

The recorder and cash, valued at $105, have been recovered.

Damage in the breakin was estimated at $100.



It's only October but already the first snowfall has been recorded in the Highlands. This was the scene next to Head Lake Monday morning after snow fell throughout the night. Three area accidents were attributed to the snowfall, which had all but melted away by noon.

Tenders for block building rejected

Council agrees to log library

by Sue Cooper

A decision to accept a tender for a log building to house the new cultural centre raised a question of ethics if not legality at last week's Anson, Hindon and Minden council meeting.

Council accepted a tender from 1867 Confederation Log Homes, owned by Ron Wrightman, after four other tenders for the specified decorative cement block building had been opened.

During the meeting, Wrightman gave a presentation concerning his buildings and after an open discussion, council closed the meeting to discuss the matter further. At the end of the closed session council had still not made a decision, but before the end of the meeting Wrightman's tender was accepted.

The new log building will cost $50,500. The other tenders which were difficult to compare to the Wrightman bid because of the difference in construction were Elstone Construction, $29,442 for materials and labour; Carnarvon Building Supplies, $17,729.52 for the merials; Don Campbell Contracting $31,669 for materials and labour, and Peterborough Lumber, $39,721.32 for materials and labour.

Council estimated it would cost approximately $12,000 to finish the concrete shells to the degree the log building would be finished. In the Wrightman bid, the inside walls will be finished with the construction of the six inch by 12 inch-log interior walls.

Bernie Davis, secretary for the Anson, Hindon and Minden ratepayers association questioned whether it was fair to other log builders who had not tendered since the specifications for the building called for a decorative block building.

Wrightman assured council it was legal to accept his tender although it might not be considered ethical when tenders had been called for the block shell.

Davis again questioned council if it might not be wise to get quotes from other log construction companies just to make sure the taxpayer's money was being spent wisely.

Reeve Sinc Nesbitt told Davis he has approached another log builder telling him he had the right to tender on the project as Wrightman did.

The Wrightman tender was

Incumbents outline concerns at meeting

Stanhope hopefuls told cottagers want plowing

by Sue Cooper

Stanhope cottagers would pay the township to plow their roads in the winter, candidates in the upcoming municipal election were told at a meet the candidates night in the township Saturday.

David Stirrett, president of the Maple Lake Property Owners Association, told prospective councillors that seasonal residents are not getting their fair share of the benefits for the taxes they pay.

He said cottagers cannot get into private roads in the winter because they are not plowed and added that lack of insurance is no excuse since insurance companies would write a policy to suit any case.

"Who owns most of the snow plow?" Stirrett asked.

Also in the wintertime, cottagers do not get the benefit of the fire department since the roads are not plowed to their properties, Stirrett said.

Elvin Johnson, incumbent councillor who acted on the fire department in the last term, said other departments do keep a snowmobile equipped with portable devices for similar emergencies. Johnson also said another possibility which has been discussed in the past is the purchase of a boat and motor that would allow firemen to travel to emergencies on water access properties.

However, if these vehicles were purchased a new bay would probably have to be added onto the fire department to provide storage area, the meeting was told.

The evening began with short speeches from members of council who had been acclaimed to their positions. Reeve Jim Harrison said his first two years as reeve of the township had been "challenging and rewarding."

He highlighted the activities of the two committees he had directly served on. He noted "major accomplishments" had been made in upgrading the road system and the Ontario Home Renewal Program was providing approximately $120,000 to help Stanhope residents to bring their homes up to a municipal standard. He said the program had been "most beneficial".

Important issues in the upcoming term in office will be the policies regarding the 66 foot original shoreline allowances and equalized assessment, he said.

Deputy-reeve Elgin Stouffer who was also returned to his position as deputy-reeve by acclamation took the opportunity to thank the township's permanent staff and the many volunteers who keep the township running smoothly.

"We have a dedicated lot of people in the township," he said.

The other acclaimed candidate present was Leroy Eager, incumbent school board trustee. Dorothy Kinsman was also acclaimed to the position but she was unable to attend the meeting because of a previous commitment.

Eager told the crowd that the Haliburton county system was the best system possible for an area this size. He pointed out that students attending community colleges after leaving the Haliburton County system were progressing well.

He promised to use "every dollar of your tax money to the best possible end."

During the question period Eager was questioned on the possibility of moving the school's March break into February as had been suggested by Chamber of Commerce manager Bob Stinson at a meeting with Larry Grossman, minister of Industry and Tourism.

Eager said the possibility had been discussed only briefly at school board meetings in the past. He said that both Stanhope trustees would appreciate input on this matter and any other matter from parents.

Supposedly, moving the March break back into the winter months would increase the tourist business for that week.

Eager said he didn't feel moving the break would be a

Cottagers claim stagnation occurs because of causeway

Horseshoe flows low: report

A consultants' report has stated that the water in Horseshoe Lake is not stagnant but the flow is very low. Gord Crosby, representing Totten, Sims, Hubicki told council that it was not known what effect a larger culvert in the causeway to Shuyler's Island would have.

Problems arose earlier when representatives of the property owners on Shuyler's Island came before council claiming the water in the back channel on Horseshoe Lake (along Duck Lake Road) was becoming stagnant because of the restricted flow.

The property owners claim circulation is being restricted by insufficient flow through the culverts under the causeway which leads to the island.

In an effort to find an answer to the problem, council contacted the consulting firm to study the lake area.

Crosby told council that water depths were measured, flow information gathered from the Ministry of Transportation and Communications and contour maps of the lake were used to come up with the hydrological engineer's findings.

As a result of the research it was discovered "the velocities of flow of Horseshoe Lake and the back channels are very, very low," Crosby told council.

However he could not suggest a method which would increase the flow in the back channels.

"Ther's no mathematical way we can calculate the benefit of a larger culvert," he said.

Although the flow velocity is low, Crosby said there is no time when the water is not flowing in the lake.

He told council the wind always has an effect on the flow in lakes.

A representative of the Horseshoe Lake property owners, G. Lucas, asked Crosby about the degree of water stagnation in the back channel.

Crosby said the water had never appeared stagnant during the testing as it could flow around the northern tip of the island.

"I don't know that the water is ever trapped in there," Crosby said.

However Lucas countered that the water often had a green slime on its surface during the summer months.

Since the study could not determine the effect the culvert might have on the flow or the supposed stagnation, Reeve Sinc Nesbitt suggested Lucas take the report to the property owners and discuss the possibility of privately hiring a consultant specific-

Career week program to help senior students make choices

Deciding on a career is seldom easy, but senior students at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School should at least know more about the choices through a special three-day career awareness program Tuesday through Thursday next week.

The program, a first for the school, will be held in conjunction with Career Week across the country. Under the chairmanship of local resort operator and Tourism Ontario chairman Art Ward, the program will mine the resources of local service clubs, organizations, and individuals to tell students about dozens of career possibilities. Groups involved include Sir Sandford Fleming College, Haliburton and Minden Rotary Clubs, the Manpower Outreach office, the Chamber of Commerce, Minden Kinsmen, the Haliburton and District Lions Club, Legion branch 129, as well as a number of local and area business people and professionals.

The program will get underway Tuesday, November 4 with a keynote speaker.
